CHAMPAGNE

Undoubtedly the most highly regarded region in the world for the production of sparkling wine - Champagne is approximately 160 kilometres east of Paris in the country's north east and is centred around the towns of Reims and Epernay where most of the Champagne houses are based.

Being one of the northernmost regions in the wine growing world it's cooler climate produces high levels of acid which are perfectly suited to the production of sparkling wine but the most significant contribution to the wines of Champagne is made by the soils. A major factor adding to the finesse of the wines is the belemnite chalk subsoil which in most areas sits below a thin layer of surface soil providing excellent drainage as well as moisture retention for the vines. The only three grapes allowed in the production are Pinot Noir which provides structure and weight, Pinot Meunier for middle palate fruit and Chardonnay that gives the wine acidity and elegance. When the wines are young you can expect bright, fresh styles with citric acidity but as they begin to mature the richer notes of butter, nuts and toffee will surface.

NON VINTAGE

Champagne produced from a blend of wines from different years to give a specific flavour profile, texture, weight and acidity.

SPARKLING WINE

Australia and New Zealand are starting to produce some very interesting and very good quality sparkling wine. Though not as highly regarded as their French counterparts these wines should be judged on their own merits and seen as a different style of product that has been made in a completely different part of the world.

NON VINTAGE

SPARKLING RED

All of these wines are produced using the traditional method for Champagne but with red (black) grapes. The bubbles 'lift' the wine to give it a more aromatic and elegant nose than still wines produced of the same grapes.

WHITE WINE BY VARIETAL

RIESLING

One of the great aromatic whites, Riesling can be made in a myriad of different styles ranging from very dry to very sweet. The grape has very high levels of acid that gives the wines length and makes them well suited to matching with many different foods. The sweeter styles provide great contrast to fresh, spicy Asian dishes while the drier, more zesty bottles tie in perfectly with shellfish.

PINOT GRIS + GRIGIO

One of the most puzzling definitions for many wine drinkers is the difference between Pinot Gris and Pinot Grigio. Though they are both produced from the same grape, the two styles are very different and unfortunately many producers who incorrectly label their wines are not helping people make the distinction. Both styles of the wine are usually dry with floral notes and light stone fruit as well as spice and honey but Pinot Gris is more rich and textural whereas Pinot Grigio is generally crisp and lighter bodied.

SAUVIGNON BLANC

If wine grapes were in a popularity contest, Sauvignon Blanc would be the hands down favourite. Although it seems that many vigneronns steer the grape in a direction that suits the market there are still a few out there who employ more a 'minimal intervention' method to their style that allows the fruit to express its regionality. Sauvignon can be made in many different styles with the most popular being those showing tropical fruit flavours of passion fruit, pineapple and banana while others have a 'greener' more herbal note with often green bean or asparagus.

23 Shaw + Smith	Adelaide Hills, SA	80.00
22 Freycinet 'Wineglass Bay'	Freycinet, TAS	65.00

NEW ZEALAND

New Zealand is now without doubt the most recognised country when it comes to the production of Sauvignon Blanc. The Marlborough region is the most sought after offering wines with tropical fruit and often a 'funk' that adds character to the nose though Central Otago is quickly becoming recognised for their fresh, zesty, mineral quality.

23 Nautilus Estate	Marlborough	75.00
23 Cloudy Bay	Marlborough, NZ	115.00
22 Mt Difficulty 'Bannockburn'	Central Otago	80.00

FRANCE

Although Sauvignon Blanc originated in Bordeaux it's best examples in France come from the Loire Valley which runs along the longest river in the country (also named the Loire). The wines are sometimes oak aged to give a more full and complex palate and are in general more rich and textured than those of New Zealand with a distinct minerality.

CHARDONNAY

The world's most popular white wine grape Chardonnay is grown everywhere that wine is produced and is considered a "wine-maker's" grape - referring to the fact that the wine-maker has many choices in regards to how the final wine will express itself. Oaking can add flavours of butterscotch and spice or the grape can be allowed to express its own varietal flavours from citrus to tropical fruit depending on the climate in which it is grown.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA

The cooler climate resulting from high altitudes in the Adelaide Hills and Eden Valley are perfect for the production of Chardonnay and most of the best examples of the style are from these two regions.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA

Western Australia's Margaret River has been long recognised as a premiere region for top-quality Chardonnays, showing a full-bodied and tropically fruity wine usually with a heavy yet balanced oak influence.

21 Vasse Felix 'Heytesbury'	Margaret River	260.00
20 Leeuwin Estate 'Art Series'	Margaret River	310.00

TASMANIA

Being the southernmost of all of our states Tasmania obviously has a cooler climate and one that is suited beautifully to the making of fresh, dry white wines that have good acidity and often flavours of green apple, melon and pear.

21 Dalrymple	Coal River Valley, TAS	120.00
--------------	------------------------	--------

NEW ZEALAND

The cold climates of New Zealand are well suited to the production of Chardonnay and offer many different styles which can vary greatly depending on the winemaker but often show a dry, minerality that many other countries struggle for.

FRANCE BURGUNDY WHITE

White Burgundy is one of the most recognised wine regions/styles in all the world. It is typified by complex white wines that show remarkable balance between fruit, oak and acidity. The chalk soils add an unparalleled minerality to the back of the palate.

USA

Traditionally, Californian Chardonnay was personified by big, okay, creamy cuvées. Though as new generations of vignerons have emerged, we are seeing more plantings in cooler sites such as Russian River and, less new oak being used, showcasing the beauty and power espoused by the sunny Western coastlines

18 The Hilt 'Santa Barbara'	Santa Barbara County	255.00

SEMILLON

Although it is highly regarded in many white wine blends Semillon is often overlooked as a single grape varietal. It is particularly good with food and has high acidity with citrus and melon flavours.

WHITE VARIETALS & BLENDS

Most wines whether white or red are blended with one thing in mind; balance. As with all things flavour, acidity and texture should be in harmony with one another. If any one thing starts to dominate a wine then it can become one dimensional & lose its appeal very quickly.

RED WINE BY VARIETAL

ROSÉ

The most common method of making Rosé is to leave the wine in contact with the skins after crushing the grapes, which allows the extraction of colour. Though some are sweet most of the best styles are dry and refreshing with flavours of strawberry and rose petal.

22 Collector Shoreline	Canberra, ACT	55.00
22 Triennes Rose IGP Mediterranee	Provence, FRA	65.00
22 Domaine Ott 'By Ott'	Provence, FRA	105.00

PINOT NOIR

The 'fickle mistress' of the wine-making world; Pinot Noir can be stunningly complex in flavour and breathtakingly delicate in texture... That is if you were to plant it in the ideal type of soil and the weather for any given year was perfect for Pinot Noir's individual need. This may be why many winemakers dedicate their lives to taming this unforgiving grape. When young this grape is full of cherry and red berry flavours but with age a leathery, savoury character for which the grape is prized starts to appear.

MAINLAND AUSTRALIA

Mainland Australia produces a variety of styles of Pinot Noir, ranging from light and fruity to medium bodied and savoury.

NEW ZEALAND - NORTH ISLAND

With a climate and soil profile similar to that of Pinot Noir's homeland of Burgundy and spattering of clones of the most highly coveted DRC vines, it comes as no surprise that Martinborough produces some of the finest Pinots in the new world.

20 Ata Rangi	Martinborough	275.00
--------------	---------------	--------

NEW ZEALAND - SOUTH ISLAND

There are some great Pinot Noir styles being produced in various regions throughout the south island of New Zealand but they are fast becoming overshadowed by those of Central Otago, the worlds most southerly wine growing region.

21 Amisfield	Central Otago	135.00

BEAUJOLAIS/RED BURGUNDY

Burgundy is one of France's most well known regions with Pinot Noir being the dominant grape. Many winemakers all over the world use Bourgogne Pinot Noir as a benchmark for their production of the grape. Beaujolais on the other hand is located further south and although most people consider this region part of Burgundy it is actually a region of it's own; with Gamay as it's premiere grape.

GRENACHE + BLENDS

Lighter styles of red wine with a medium body that work very well with food, in particular light red meat such as beef tenderloin or lean lamb. These wines have aromas and flavours of red berries and plum.

MERLOT

One of the world's most popular grapes, Merlot is used successfully in both varietal wines and in blends. It is one of the primary grapes used in Bordeaux and is the most planted grape in France but is also extremely popular in many of the world's other wine growing regions. Merlot is an early ripening grape and when produced in cooler climates tends to show light, red fruit flavours such as strawberry, raspberry and plum whereas in warmer climates it leans more toward dark berries, black cherry and chocolate. Because of its medium body, natural fruit sweetness, gentle tannin structure and soft, fleshy mouth feel it is the perfect grape to introduce the palate to red wine.

22 Smith & Hooper 'Reserve'	Wrattonbully, SA	85.00
21 Hickinbotham 'The Revivalist'	Mclaren Vale, SA	160.00

RHÔNE VALLEY REDS

Home to many of the best châteaux in France the Rhône valley produces a huge amount of fine, elegant, dry red wine that is suited to food. The southern areas is generally warmer producing bolder, richer reds from predominantly Grenache while in the north finesse and elegance are presented with Syrah as the dominant grape.

MALBEC

Characterised by its dark inky coloured grapes, Malbec is one of the five grapes used in Bordeaux. However because of the grapes poor resistance to weather it never took off as an individual grape variety in France. It found its home in Argentina where the smaller grapes and tighter clusters lead to a deep colour, intense fruity flavour and velvety texture.

SHIRAZ + SYRAH

Although there is much debate as to the origin of the Syrah (Shiraz) grape there is no argument that it is one of the most popular red wine grapes being grown and produced in Australia today. Wines labelled Syrah tend to be a lighter, fruitier style where as Shiraz generally refers to a richer, oak aged style of wine. It is a very versatile grape and can be grown in many different climates all of which result in an original finished product. In cooler areas the grape can have lifted, elegant notes of violets, mint, and eucalypt while in warmer climates rich red fruits and chocolate or liquorice are more evident. The wines are aged in oak more often than not and are well suited to bottle ageing developing softer and more balanced flavours as they progress.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA

Home to the famous Barossa Valley, South Australia is the undisputed leader in Australia's Shiraz production. The wines are full bodied and opulent with rich, red fruit as well as liquorice, chocolate and cedar resulting from oak ageing. There are also some brilliant bottles coming from the McLaren Vale where the wines have a more floral and spicy character.

Though not as well-known as the highly coveted Cabernets and Chardonnays, Western Australian Shiraz is, at it's best, full-bodied and rich with dark berry flavours complimented by a hint of baking spice, fine grained tannins bring the palate together seamlessly.

CABERNET SAUVIGNON

Cabernet Sauvignon is one of the highly prized and sought after red wine grapes in the world. It is grown with great success in many of the worlds most recognised regions and although it is more than capable of producing wines of great depth, structure and complexity as a single varietal it is often blended with other grapes to result in some of the planet's most highly regarded reds.

In this country, it is best known from the Coonawarra region in South Australia as well as the Margaret River in Western Australia, but in France it is the backbone of many of the best wines from Bordeaux. The grape is also very well made in California and many wine drinkers consider these wines to be among the best in the world.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA

From the Margaret River region, typical aromas of capsicum, spice and pepper with often a leafy, stalky character can sometimes be attributed to whole bunch pressing but is often just the result of the fruit.

SPANISH/CHILEAN REDS

Traditionally Spain was renowned particularly for its Tempranillo and Garnacha (Grenache) though in last century it is becoming increasingly known for Cabernet Sauvignon, with producers such as Miguel Torres creating masterpieces to rival even the finest Bordeaux wines. Chile are renowned for their Carménère and increasingly their Syrah with the help of John Duvall of Penfold's fame.

RED BLENDS + VARIETALS

Most wines whether white or red are blended with one thing in mind; balance. As with all things, flavour, acidity and texture should be in harmony with one another. If any one thing starts to dominate a wine then it can become one dimensional and lose its appeal very quickly. The wines are always labelled so that the highest percentage grape in the blend is listed first and then so on.

Most of the red wine blended in South Australia comes from Cabernet Sauvignon and Shiraz. The Cabernet component gives the wines structure and backbone, while the Shiraz offers further depth with rich, opulent fruit.

RED BORDEAUX

Bordeaux is regarded by many as the best region in the world for the production of dry red wine. There are many laws in place to help regulate the wine industry which sometimes impedes winemakers choices but almost always guarantees wines of the highest quality. The main black grapes used in Bordeaux are Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Merlot, Malbec and Petit Verdot.

ITALIAN REDS

PIEDMONT

This well-known region in Italy's northwest is best known for the Nebbiolo (Spanna) grape which is used to make both Barolo and Barbaresco. The wines are almost always very high in tannin and for that reason benefit greatly from further time in bottle although they are aged at least two years (four for riserva) prior to release.

TUSCANY

In the hot, dry climate of Tuscany the all-star of Italian grape varieties, Sangiovese, really thrives. Sangiovese is the base for blends of Chianti but also the ever growing 'Super-Tuscan' which breaks from tradition by adding Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot. The wines are fruity, rich and alcoholic with a natural acidity.
